been in the wooded area more than 24 hours. This left about 48 hours of Bang-Jensen's disappearance unaccounted for. He was not seen alive after leaving his home Monday at Lake Success on Long Island—about two miles from where he was found.

Bang-Jensen, former senior political officer at the U.N., was fired from his $17,000-a-year position in July 1958. He created international furor for refusing to divulge the names of 81 Hungarian refugees who had given secret testimony before the U.N. committee on Hungary.

Bang-Jensen said he had promised to keep the names secret to protect the refugees' families from possible communist reprisals. The sealed list of names was burned on the roof of the U.N. building in the presence of officials.

Bang-Jensen first was suspended from his U.N. post, accused of insubordination, and then discharged by U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

At the U.N. the secretariat said there would be "no comment" on the death. However, Hammarskjold sent a note of condolence to Mrs. Bang-Jensen, who went into seclusion when told of her husband's death.

of lung cancer.

"2. Cigarette smoking particularly is associated with an increased chance of developing lung cancer.

"3. Stopping cigarette smoking even after long exposure is beneficial.

"4. No method of treating tobacco or filtering the smoke has been demonstrated to be effective in materially reducing or eliminating the hazard of lung cancer.

"5. The nonsmoker has a lower incidence of lung cancer than the smoker in all controlled studies, whether analyzed in terms of rural areas, urban regions, industrial occupations, or sex.

"6. Persons who have never smoked at all (cigarettes, cigars, or pipe) have the best chance of escaping lung cancer.

"are Unless the use of tobacco can be made safe the individual person's risk of lung cancer can best be reduced by the elimination of smoking."

Surgery and recent scientific studies also point to air pollution—from car exhausts, industrial smog and so on — as additional causative factors in rising lung cancer.
